Event Category: Awareness of Trends in Technology

Event Name: Guest Lecture on Developing an entrepreneurial mindset: Overcoming challenges and setbacks

Date: 5th December, 2025

A seminar was organized for FCAIT - MCA students on "Developing an entrepreneurial mindset: Overcoming challenges and setbacks" on 5th December 2025. The seminar was conducted by Mr. Param Mehta (Founder, Coding Mantra) specializing in angular, Firebase, and Node, along with strong proficiency in React.js, Next.js, and start-up development. Around 116 students attended the seminar. The whole seminar was coordinated by Akanksha Singh.

The session highlighted that entrepreneurship is not a comfortable lifestyle but a challenging journey requiring continuous problem-solving, risk-taking, and personal sacrifices. Unlike a job that offers stability and routine, entrepreneurship demands flexibility, responsibility, and the ability to handle uncertainty. The speaker emphasized the importance of family and financial support in the early stages, as well as the need for a strong mindset before entering the entrepreneurial world.

A key message was that execution matters more than ideas. With modern tools like AI, no-code platforms, and Firebase Studio, students can quickly build prototypes and test solutions. Understanding the target audience, identifying real problems, and keeping interfaces simple for non-technical users were presented as essential for product success. The session also stressed the importance of building the right team, collaborating with others, and learning from failures rather than fearing them.

Overall, the session encouraged students to start exploring ideas early, leverage college support, and develop skills such as prompting, teamwork, and resilience. Entrepreneurship was presented as a journey that rewards those who are willing to learn, adapt, and persist.
