However, he emphasized that improving vocabulary not only boosts confidence but can also contribute to higher earnings, as vocabulary plays a pivotal role in shaping one’s personality. He concluded by suggesting that, rather than memorizing words in isolation, one should associate them with daily experiences and even create a “word family.” Connecting words to familiar contexts makes learning more engaging. He advised avoiding the monotony of learning from roots and instead, framing the vocabulary journey within a paragraph to appreciate the significance of each word in a broader context. The session was coordinated by Dr. Aashal Bhatt and Dr. Kruti Shah.
